

Update: The Lenz Family

I've been in our village for 9 days. It's been an encouraging visit. Among other things, a highlight is that we have now finished proofreading the New Testament. It's been completed and approved for print by our consultants for a bit over a year, but we decided we needed to do a proof read for spelling, punctuation, and grammar-related things. This has taken a long time as it is limited to when I can be in the village with my helpers. We're very glad we did this as it will definitely result in a better printed copy. I have a few things to tweak and then hopefully off to our guys in Sanford for formatting and typesetting so we can get it printed. There are some others ahead of us in the cue, so we don't know yet how long this will take. Thank you for standing with us in prayer and support!
